Princetonian Asks 2 1/2 Billion Bonus

Washington, April 1 (AP)—Thomas Riggs, Jr., Princeton student and national treasurer of the Veterans of Future Wars, has appeared at the Capitol as an announced lobbyist for a $2,500,000,000 bonus.

Presenting himself to Chairman O'Connor (D-N.Y.) of the House rules committee yesterday, he said: "I want to know how to register as a lobbyist."

"Lobbyist for what?" asked O'Connor, looking him up and down.

"For the veterans of future wars," "What's this," asked the Congressman, getting red in the face. "A joke?"

"No," said the youthful Riggs. "I'm serious. We've got a bill xxx."

"Sure, so have I," broke in O'Connor.

"We want the government to give a bonus of $1,000 to every male citizen between the ages of 15 and 45 payable June 1, 1945."

"My proposal," came back O'Connor, "is to give a pension to the widow of the unknown soldier and his children."

"I think the government should," said Riggs, "but how do I register?" O'Connor told him that he would not have to go through any formal procedure.

"Thanks," said Riggs, "then I think I'll go lobby. See you later."

The Princetonian—one of five students who originated the "veterans" idea four weeks ago—said approximately 20,000 persons have joined the movement.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By Associated Press

ON THE POLITICAL FRONT

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

(By The Associated Press)

Franklin D. Roosevelt, who has referred to himself as a national "quarterback," must do most of the actual ball-carrying both now and in November—with the aid, of course, of a well-practiced interference.

In the election he meets a team of unpredictable strength: In the warm-up engagement at the Philadelphia convention he faces the possibility of disaffection within his own squad.

In one sense, his eleven is on the offensive, for a President must make positive decisions—and run the risk of a fumble or a tactical error. A series of losses could be disastrous to both quarterback and team; the opposition, broadly speaking, has less to lose.

As President and Democratic nominee-presumptive, he is spared the hardest party work and worry; his is the more difficult task of calling the signals.

Tomorrow—Charles Michelson.

NEW HURLEY

New Hurley, April 1.—German Smith of Castle visited at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gerow Schoonmaker, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Jenkins of Modena spent last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Isaac Sutton and family.

Clarence Spencer and Edgar Harland attended a father and son banquet at the M. E. Church in New Paltz on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Birch spent the week-end at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Tears, in Poughkeepsie.

Henry Jenkins of Wallkill was a caller in this place on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Powell were recent shoppers in Newburgh.

The T. N. T. Club held a party at the church hall on Friday evening of last week.

The offering taken at the regular church services last Sunday morning for the Red Cross to benefit the flood sufferers amounted to $52.55.

The New Hurley Sunday school will again resume its study class meeting and will meet at the home of Mrs. Nelson Hedger on Thursday evening, April 2, at 8 o'clock. All are welcome.

Felix Averill has recently purchased a new car.

Mrs. Gerow Schoonmaker spent Saturday in New York city.

Howard DuBois and daughter, Mrs. Harry Quick, of Libertyville called at the home of his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Perry DuBois, on Sunday afternoon.

The Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Gerow Wilkin on Thursday afternoon, April 2, at 2:30 o'clock. Subject, "Marked Trails, India's leader, Mrs. George Sherwood." Bible word, Faith.

Roosevelt Happy on Trip

Miami, Fla., April 1 (AP).—President Roosevelt cruised southward from Nassau today eagerly intent on fishing for the remainder of the week. The national campaign seemed far from the President's thoughts as he talked with newspapermen yesterday aboard the U. S. S. Potomac in Nassau harbor. The President described his fishing luck as the best of any of his annual trips in these waters and remarked that enough was caught daily to feed the entire ship. He said he expected to remain at sea until Saturday, Sunday or Monday, depending upon conditions at home. He expressed the hope of stopping at Warm Springs, Ga., briefly on the return.

Miss Maguire 31 Today

Chicago, April 1 (AP).—Patricia Maguire, the "sleeping beauty" who has never heard of the Lindbergh kidnapping, the New Deal or the Italo-Ethiopian war, was 31 years old today. Her mother, Mrs. Peter Miller, bent over a bed in their suburban Oak Park home and whispered: "Happy birthday, Pat." There was no response from the victim of a rare form of sleeping sickness. She has been in a coma since February 14, 1932. "She seems more alert," the mother said. "We are hopeful that some day she may recover completely and catch up on the events that have taken place."

Fire Board Appointed Three Paid Firemen, Assume Duty on May 1

The Board of Fire Commissioners at its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the Central Fire Station appointed Walter F. Madajewski of 39 Second avenue, Howard Myer of 13 East St. James street and Arthur F. Fitzgerald of 17 Prince street as members of the paid fire department to fill the vacancies caused by the retirement of John Heppner, John L. Strubel and Irving Egnor. The three new firemen assume their duties on May 1.

The Civil Service Board submitted an eligible list to the fire board yesterday containing five names of the five men who headed an eligible list containing 60 names. The list was made up following the holding of physical and mental tests in December.

Mr. Madajewski at present is serving as a special policeman on duty guarding one of the city banks. Mr. Myer is a salesman and Mr. Fitzgerald is a chauffeur.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only make-shifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmonious, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else, 25c.

Spring Primary to Be Held Thursday

Spring primary, which occurs every four years to select delegates to attend the national conventions and members of the state committee, will be held Thursday, April 2. Enrolled voters of the county may vote. Polls will be open from noon until 9 o'clock in the evening.

All enrolled voters are requested to make an effort to turn out and cast a ballot even though there may be no contest in his or her party. A good turnout at the Spring Primary will strengthen the party and will materially assist the ticket in November.

Delegates and alternate delegates to the national conventions will be elected as well as members of the state committee from Ulster county. This applies to the major parties.

While there is no contest in Republican circles a good turnout and a large complimentary vote is encouraging to the party. Republican delegates to the national convention are Philip Elting of Ulster county and Lewis K. Rockefeller of Columbia county. Alternate delegates are George E. Tupper of Greene county and Elliot Springstead of Schoharie county.

For members of the Republican state committee from Ulster county are Philip Elting and Mrs. Laura Rose of Kingston.

On the Democratic ticket there is opposition for state committee. Judge Bernard A. Culliton of Kingston appears to be the organization man but is being opposed by Manuel Dittenheimer of Ellenville who filed a petition a few weeks ago. His petition contained over 300 names from Wawarsing, while the petition of Judge Culliton contained the signature of about 1,300 persons. Mrs. Joan Dwyer Goldrick of Kingston is the second committee man and is unopposed.

The Socialist party will select members of the county committee in certain city districts.

4 Die In Fire

Farmington, Me., April 1 (AP)—Four members of the family of Clement O. Luce died early today in a fire which destroyed the home they moved into last Saturday from the flood-damaged house they had occupied previously. The dead, Luce's wife, Laura, 35, and their children, Warren, 8; Clement, Jr., 3, and Donna May, 10 months. Luce was in a critical condition in a hospital.

Republicans May Select Lowden As Convention Keynote

Washington, April 1 (AP)—Former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois was tentatively selected today as keynote for the Republican national convention at Cleveland.

Republican leaders were agreed on the selection but had not obtained Lowden's consent. He was keynote at last year's grass roots conference, however, and was expected to accept the new invitation.

To balance off Lowden, a mid-westerner, Republican leaders were discussing selection of an eastern man as permanent chairman of the convention. Walter Edge of New Jersey, former ambassador and senator was said by high party officials to be a likely choice.

Both posts will be formally filled at a meeting of the committee or arrangements for the convention April 21 at Cleveland. The convention meets June 9.

National Chairman James A. Farley said Democratic convention selections would not be made until President Roosevelt returned from his southern vacation and had a chance to go over the prospects.

The Democratic committee on arrangements will meet in Philadelphia late this month to select the official platform. President Roosevelt's choices are expected to prevail.

High Democrats said Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, was a likely selection for permanent chairman, with a western governor the probable choice for keynote. Senator Wagner, (D., N. Y.) may be chosen to nominate President Roosevelt for the second term.

Robinson was permanent chairman of the 1920 Democratic convention of San Francisco and again at Houston eight years ago.

Representative Fish (R., N. Y.) in an article in the Young Republican magazine, said that if the Republican party "is to be hauled out of the pit it is the young men and women voters who will accomplish it."

Trucks to Replace Horses at Units Here Of 156th Artillery

Today Headquarters Battery and Battery "A," Kingston units of the 156th Field Artillery, will receive their first shipment of trucks and bid goodbye to their horses.

Orders received yesterday that three station wagons were ready to be picked up in Newburgh today and Staff Sergeant Robert Ennis and a crew of three will journey down the river to drive the vehicles to the local armory. This is the first step in the motorization of the local unit, an action which was announced some time ago would take place about April 1. Two of the wagons will go to Battery "A" and the other will be the property of Headquarters Battery. It was announced also that a number of Dodge trucks would be available in the immediate future and plans are under way to adapt these cars for use of the artillery units.

Seven of the horses will be taken away today to the 112th, leaving about 24 horses in the local armory which will be moved or sold in the near future.

This is the first time in the history of steamboat operation on the Hudson river that the night services have been consolidated under the one ownership and management of the Hudson River Navigation Corporation.

The steamers commenced their regular sailings from New York, at Pier 52, North River, and from Albany and Troy today.

A. F. Lockwood will be agent at Kingston and E. E. Dedicott will be traffic representative for the Hudson River Navigation Corporation.

Fascists Report Big Victory Over Troops Led by Selassie

Rome, April 1 (AP)—Italy's northern army smashed through to its first major victory over the troops of Haile Selassie—led by the Emperor himself—Marshal Pietro Badoglio reported today in an official communique.

Badoglio announced that 7,000 Ethiopians were killed and that the Italian forces had suffered more than 1,000 casualties.

The Fascist commander-in-chief said the Ethiopian king of kings fought personally in the battle yesterday in the Lake Ashangi sector, 30 miles south of the former principal front lines at Amba Alaji.

Marshal Badoglio's communique said:

"Yesterday the Negus (emperor) started a great battle with his best troops in the Lake Ashangi zone. The battle, which was extremely violent in certain phases, concluded with a victory for our troops."

"Further details will be given in a succeeding communique."

Simultaneously, the occupation of Gondar, strategic Ethiopian center near the British sphere of influence about Lake Tana to the west of the action on the central northern front, was confirmed officially.

The personal troops of Emperor Haile Selassie were reported to have been engaged in the Lake Ashangi battle.

Such an engagement was one of the principal objectives of the northern Italian army after having met and scattered every other major Ethiopian force in the north.

The report of the Quorum battle followed by one day the entrance of the motorized cavalry into Gondar, strategic center near Lake Tana on the west, and announcing of occupation of Sardo, in the Assa Sul-tanate, on the east.

Compulsory Service Decreed in Vienna By Unanimous Vote

Vienna, April 1 (AP)—The federal diet, by unanimous vote, today made "service to the fatherland" compulsory, granting the government unlimited authority to conscript men for labor on public works projects and for military duties in emergencies.

The extraordinary law stated: "Any Austrian may be called on to serve the fatherland with or without arms, according to his physical and spiritual capacity."

The age range runs from 18 to 42 years.

A spokesman for the Czech government in Prague said Czechoslovakia would protest against compulsory military service in Austria as a violation of the treaty of St. Germain with which Austria made her peace with the allies at the end of the World War. French officials in Paris offered the same criticism.

The Austrian government, under the new law, is the sole judge of the type or length of service which may be demanded of a conscript.

The government also is to decide how many men are to be called into public service.

It was given the authority to call on every man within the age limit, but, if there is no public emergency, only a portion may be inducted into service.

The law was enacted after Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg made a moving address in which he pleaded for the "consolidation of nations" and explained the details of the bill.

The chancellor called it a plan to serve the military and civil needs of the country.

Nyack Clergyman Killed in Bus Crash

The fatal victim was the Rev. George Noble Bell, 42, of Nyack, N. Y., a passenger on the bus.

The injured were:

Omeron Conrad, Malden, Mass., driver of the bus.

Louie Piccolo, 26, Providence, Mass.

MORE JOBS, MORE JOBLESS

A strong case is made for the machine as man's best friend by H. A. Toulmin, Jr., writing in the Sandusky, O. Register. From 1900 to 1930, he says, there was a gain of 20,000,000 new jobs, created by machinery. In the last 50 years the population of the United States increased about 200 per cent, while jobs increased 300 per cent. Machinery is credited for much of the gain. One-seventh of all workers today are making some product not known 60 years ago. Eighteen of our biggest industries have been created by machinery and invention since 1880. They employ a million workers directly in manufacturing alone, and other millions in producing the raw materials used and in shipping, servicing and selling the finished products. Occupations that have disappeared have ended only 300,000 jobs, he says, while new businesses have created more than 2,250,000 jobs.

The writer cites other statistics as to wages increased and burdens lightened by machinery, and concludes that invention and machinery have been the salvation of our society. Regardless of the accuracy or inaccuracy of the statistics, there is much truth in what this writer says. Yet the fact remains that, for one reason or another, there are today unprecedented millions of unemployed persons in the United States. Most of whom desire above all things the opportunity to earn their own living and to raise their families decently and self-respectingly. The machine may not be to blame for their plight, but something is. The sooner we find out what, the better for the U. S. A.

THE OUTSPOKEN GENERAL

The final comment on Gen. Johnson Hagood, who has been lately the center of a military and political storm, may be "all's well that ends well." Reports of his recent conference with the President are reassuring. The brilliant and plain-spoken general did go pretty far in his criticism of government policies before a congressional committee. Some of his comments stung the New Dealers. Military men are supposed not to talk politics. He could probably have made his points clear while preserving a strictly military attitude. And yet Gen. Hagood obviously got a raw deal from that committee. He was urged to speak freely and was promised immunity and secrecy for his testimony, and was then betrayed by publication of his statements, and has been a pretty good sport about it.

The President's reported decision to move Gen. Hagood, after a brief and nominal punishment, from Texas to the command of the Second Corps area at New York, seems no more than fair.

DISASTER AND BOOM.

The floods in 13 eastern states have inflicted vast damage. Destruction of homes, factories, stores and their contents, of railroads and bridges and streets and sewers and communication systems and all the complex apparatus of modern city life, is estimated as half a billion dollars or more. And that may be only a beginning. The whole account, some business men say, might mount up to $2,000,000,000. In such a reckoning there would be figured the whole economic loss, including along with property damage the indirect losses of working time of millions of people in factories, mills, stores and offices, the expense of families left without means of support, and the staggering loss represented in millions of tons of fertile soil washed away. It may be the costliest natural catastrophe in American history. And yet it may prove to be, on the whole, a blessing in disguise. For already there is widespread talk of the "business boom" that may grow out of these floods. Public and private money is being poured into the distressed areas by tens of millions, which may soon grow to hundreds of millions. Here may be the greatest "pump-priming" yet known in American industry.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

Another champion of a realistic foreign trade policy is Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago News and presidential candidate. In a speech at New York, discussing the farm problem, he divides that problem into three parts: efficient production, finding domestic markets, and finding foreign markets. As for the last of these, he says:

"We cannot regain our export markets unless we are willing to import more goods from other countries. We should adopt a policy of promoting international agreement stabilize our currencies and to reduce, by multilateral action certain barriers and restrictions which now encumber the exchange of goods and services between nations." The same process of building up our exports by cautiously enlarging our imports, might also help us collect some of those foreign debts.

FEAR OF HEART DISEASE

It sometimes happens that a healthy individual under severe strain or who has received a shock of some kind will find that his heart is beating more rapidly and may also be somewhat irregular. Under these circumstances it is only natural that heart disease should be suspected, because any irregularity in its beating certainly shows that if the heart is not diseased, at least something is affecting its action.

When the heart is examined by the physician and he finds that there is no organic trouble—no actual disease—he must be careful how he handles the patient. To simply tell him that there is nothing wrong, that there is nothing to worry about, and to belittle the fact that the heart is fast and irregular, is not usually satisfactory to the patient and most of us would feel about the same way.

The first step in the treatment is a very careful and thorough examination and if the patient can afford it the use of the X-ray and also the machine known as the electrocardiograph which traces on a sheet the actual movements of the heart. The size of the heart is then mapped out, the patient lies down, sits up, stands, does some hard exercise for a minute or half a minute, rests for one or two minutes the heart rate and sounds being carefully noted before and after. The blood pressure is recorded, teeth and tonsils examined, and any history of rheumatism noted, urine and blood tested.

After this complete examination the physician usually says, "Your heart is sound but it has been upset, is tired, and needs a rest. Not only does your heart need rest, but your whole body, particularly the nervous system needs rest. This rest must be both physical and mental. And if your home surroundings are not likely to give this complete rest, it must be obtained elsewhere."

There is nothing quite so upsetting to the average individual as to get the idea that he has heart disease. Nothing but a thorough examination will quiet his fears. By getting sufficient rest, avoiding excitement, eating easily digested food which causes no gas pressure, the heart will gradually become quiet and regular, and the fear of heart disease will disappear.

Golden Rain

by Margaret Widdemer

SYNOPSIS: Iris Lansing is at Georgia Bluff, "glamorous" cocktail party, the first night of the sort Iris has attended in New York. Iris has been taken up by her wealthy Aunt Phineas, who has made a dressing shop into a national institution. Her new clothes and friends have taken her mind temporarily off her Aunt Elia and Uncle Will, at home in Peru. Ph. has been talking to awkward Camilla Wendell, who is in love with Iris's father, Owen, and hasn't the art to hide it.

CHAPTER 23 ENCOUNTER

BUT before Iris could open her letter the light caught the silver of her jacket, and Owen danced near her; he had in his arms someone she did not know, who was caught from him. He stopped beside her.

"Having a good time?" he asked affectionately. Before she could reply, Camilla saw him. Iris could feel the quiver of excitement which ran over all her body.

Camilla, taking the speech as meant for her, answered, "It's—it's wonderful. I'm crazy about parties. I'm—Owen, where were you this morning? I wanted to see you and Miss Phineas wouldn't let me—"

Owen sat on the floor in the dusk, touching his sister's shoulder. She could feel his shrug of impatience as he answered.

"I was busy. I have work to do, Camilla, though people like you never seem to think so."

"—Oh, Owen, I didn't mean to say the wrong thing. I always do put my foot in it. Please forgive me—"

Georgia's carrying voice broke in on them. "Camilla, where on earth are you? There's nobody to clear off the glasses, the tables are simply full of them. Take a candle and do it, will you?"

Camilla lumbered to her feet obediently, casting one last despairing look at her lost joy in the person of Owen, as she went.

"I wish she'd leave me alone," Owen said. "Because some day I'll get so discouraged about everything—Sigh! hard as nails about marriage unless I drop doing what I ought to do, and having doing it—that I'll marry that woman. And, I suppose, make her life a misery, and she's a decent sort."

He spoke, not irritably, but with a despondent note in his voice.

"Owen, Owen, you mustn't do that! I'm dreadfully sorry for her. I don't see how she can be so open about being in love with you, but I couldn't be with her and not feel that she's honest, and dreadfully unhappy. I don't know, I don't know. Have anybody else ever loved her or been kind to her in her life, the way she acts?"

"No, that's where I got into trouble. Her mother wanted a beautiful attractive daughter, and she punished Camilla all her life for looking like her father. Old Owen said she was the ugliest man you ever saw. Her mother hoped my silly designs could do something for her—if anyone can, Phineas can make people look as they should—and I was sorry for her and showed it. Result—she was so. She doesn't mean to be forward she's like a bewildered, bullied child. She has a good brain really."

Iris stood there a moment, thinking, the candle in her hand making her a picturesque illuminated figure in the dusky corner between the tall wooden Maccanah and a tall table full of Chinese images and cocktail glasses.

ALLAN BECKLEY took the candle from her, set it down, and was away with her again.

"I heard you talking," he said. "I think you're wonderful. I want to have a dinner-party for you. It's your duty"—his voice was a little teasing—"to attend it. I'll get my grandmother to matronize it."

He said the last sentence as if he were offering her a jewel of great price instead of a grandmother; she wondered who the grandmother might be that having her as a chaperon was so wonderful, and then decided that he was simply one of those people who think everything they have is wonderful because it belongs to them. But he was kind.

It was getting late. People were drifting away from the party some of them speaking to Georgia, some merely piling out as though from a restaurant. There were more lights now disclosing the ash-scattered, devastated place; a couple of the caterer's men Camilla was paying for, bored and obviously hoping everyone else would go, fussed about the ruins of sandwiches and places and overturned chairs and rolled up rug.

prizes and $75 was cleared by a most enjoyable evening's entertainment.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, March 31.—The High Falls community responded most heartily to the call of the American Red Cross for donations for the sufferers of the disastrous floods which have been sweeping so many of our states for the past weeks. The total amount contributed was about $100, which does not include the many private donations sent in the form of personal checks. Over $50 of this amount was collected at the post office, which included a donation of $25 by the High Falls school children, the junior citizens of our country. The dinner party given in the women's hall Friday evening, March 27, for the benefit of this worthy cause, was a great success. The members of our local community gladly donated all the refreshments and the

There are two things every man wants in the future. One is the assurance that his family will be comfortably secure in case he should die. The other is that he will be financially independent in old age if he lives. Money put aside toward those ends must be placed where it is as safe as human intelligence can make it. Every possible risk must be anticipated and guarded against. "Safety first—profit second" must be the guiding motto.

Iris talks, tomorrow, with Uncle Will.

Georgia, sharp and bright-lipped in her red, lounced up with a couple of men; Camilla trotted heavily behind her.

"Oh, are you going to have a party, Allan? Oh, ask me!" Camilla cried with a heavy gasp which Iris realized marked desperation.

"Oh, all right," Allan's voice trailed languidly.

Georgia, assuming with cool nonchalance that she too had been asked, said: "Make it a stunt party. Everybody but the host has to do tricks—or bring somebody who does them."

"I know a wonderful fortune teller. I can hire," Camilla shrieked.

"I'll dance, of course," Georgia went on. "And I suppose Iris does something wonderful." Her voice was soft and silky.

"I can sing—my grandmother's songs," said Iris. "In costume, if you like." All alight and excited, she smiled up at Georgia.

"That," said Georgia, "will be wonderful. We'll feature you. Beautiful unknown, doing Songs of the Seventies! I can just see you. Remember, you won't be let off. It'll be priceless. And now, darling, I simply have to throw you all out. Or revel on without me. Got to be on my way. Good-by, beautiful unknown! Crazy about having you!"

She was off and up toward the dressing room.

The others seemed to see nothing unusual in this. Some of them followed her to the place where wraps were. Others merely turned the radio to a dance orchestra number, and continued to glide among the caterer's men. As Iris turned to follow the others upstairs Camilla put a hot heavy hand on her arm.

"I WANT to tell you something," she said in her schoolgirl whisper. "I like you and I want you to be friends with me. You can, I don't do things to people. But Georgia does. She doesn't go out of her way to, but if people get into it, she's horrid. When she talks in that specially pretty way is when you want to watch out, if she is my cousin."

"She and Allan make a sort of game out of everything. They're always had everything; they feel as if the world belonged to them, and other people were—sorts, kind of, and they kings and queens. You don't; you're real and kind, and you'll get hurt."

"All right, I'll be careful," Iris said lightly. "Poor frightened Camilla, with whom Georgia had evidently been severe! Camilla, she thought, had been seeing too many movies. "And I'll see you at Allan Beckley's dinner."

And she ran up the stairs. They did not really feel like stairs. They felt like walking on air.

Allan was close behind her.

"We haven't settled the date of our dinner," he said. "Would Thursday a week—"

"Grand!"

She felt for something to put it down on and pulled out Uncle Will's opened letter. As she took Allan's offered pencil and began to make a note on the margin her eyes were caught by the clear old-fashioned writing, and she read it, absorbedly, while Allan stood tall above her waiting.

"I am not quite as well as formerly," wrote Uncle Will—who never overstated, "and your aunt is in bed with a queer sort of collapse. But Morgan manages everything splendidly, and Molly Williams comes in to work by the day and is a host in herself. We miss our little girl, of course, but we are glad she's having a good time."

"Oh, Allan, I can't come to your party!" All the fairy-tale times were swept away, and it showed in her troubled, but steadfast, pretty face, lifted to him on the stairs in the half light. "Not unless it's years off. I have to go home!"

But it was not possible, she found, so say anything before or at dinner. A burst of red checked explosive Frenchman, a representative of Molyneux, was dining, and Iris found herself swept into the conversation in her fluent, Aunt Elia-learned French. M. Grioux seemed to like her.

When the guest had gone she called Phineas back from her desk, and spoke to her with resolution, straightening up from the low odd mound of silver cloth on one side the strange modernist fireplace. It was chilly; legs had been brought from some invisible hiding-place and were burning as docilely as most things did for Aunt Phineas.

"I'm afraid I must go back to Peru, after all. Uncle Will is ill, and Aunt Elia seems in a curious sort of state, from what he says."

"Go back, for foolish baby? That would upset everything!"

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—Politicians here believe Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, prominently mentioned for the Republican presidential nomination, tripped badly when he introduced his resolution in the senate calling on the farm administration to make public all benefit payments in excess of $10,000.

Some go so far as to say it is the first major political misstep which can be charged against him since his name has figured in all discussions of the probable G. O. P. nominee at Cleveland.

While he stoutly maintained he was "asking only for information bearing upon the public policy involved," publication of these figures would have wide repercussions on the political front.

Cached in the files of the farm administration are records of benefit payments which, if made public, would necessitate a lot of explaining in a national election year such as this. AAA checks during the past three years have been mailed to some of the most prominent political personages in the country, including those who have both praised and criticized the administration's program.

Charge 'Snooping'

VANDENBERG'S proposal also runs counter to the very thing Republicans and anti-New Dealers have condemned so strongly—prying into the private affairs of the individual.

Science Views New Star, Explains 'Exploding' Nova May Herald New Creation

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
(Associated Press Science Writer)

Washington, (AP)—A nova, or new star, such as the latest one discovered by the Carnegie Institution of Washington, may be creation at work. In making public their discovery of the super nova in the constellation of Virgo, tentatively designated as Nova Virginia, the Carnegie astronomers at Mt. Wilson, Cal., permitted themselves a little theorizing to explain the occurrence of such star explosions.

Novae, they explained, are stars which for some unknown reason explode violently and flame up to many times their original brightness before returning to obscurity. Nova Virginia, which expanded with a velocity of 3,700 miles per second, reached its maximum brightness, the 14th magnitude, on February 16 and then faded rapidly.

A Movement of Energy.

Dr. Gustaf Stromberg of the Mount Wilson observatory declared that "Nothing very definite is known about the cause of a nova outburst. It is obvious that the rate at which energy is released is terrific, and since energy cannot be created from nothing it must have existed in the system in some form or another before the catastrophe occurred," he added.

One possible explanation is that "the rate at which heat is generated in the interior of a star is for some reason or other increased and the lid is blown off," Dr. Stromberg declared.

"We do not know what determines this rate. The heat must certainly come from sub-atomic processes, and these are as yet only incompletely understood."

Matter ejected during a nova outburst may account for the existence of planets and satellites, such as the earth, Mars and Jupiter, he added. "If this is true a nova outburst is a signal that construction work on new abodes for organic life has been started."

Nature's Sledge Hammer.

"The reverberations from the first blows of the sledge hammer are felt throughout the universe—and when they reach our little insignificant planet we see a nova sparkling in the sky."

Another explanation, he added, is that the explosions are caused by stars colliding or coming into such close proximity as to result in a violent disturbance.

Nova Virginia is the sixth of its kind to be found in the long history of astronomy, observers classifying the outbursts according to their brilliance. At their maximum brightness these super novae are 100 times brighter than ordinary stars and shine with a radiance equal to 60,000,000 suns such as the one which makes life possible on earth.

Nova Virginia is located about 7,000,000 light years out in space, a light year being the distance which a beam of light can travel in a year.

How a nova expands and grows brighter. . . . These photographs are of Nova Aquilae, a star which began to expand in 1918. From top to bottom the pictures were snapped in July, 1922, September, 1926, and August, 1931. The rays in the two lower photographs were caused by the telescope.

while moving at the rate of 186,270 miles per second. It is 29 seconds north of the nucleus of the nebula of Virgo. This constellation, which contains the white first magnitude star Spica, is located on the celestial equator due south of the handle of the Dipper.

Events Around The Empire State

Canton, N. Y., April 1 (AP)—Sale of milk by the State School of Agriculture brought charges of "unfair competition" in a suit for permanent injunction filed by four Canton milk dealers yesterday. Sidney Kitay, attorney for the dealers, Michael J. Carragher, Rollin M. Moore, Edwin E. Sykes and Roger J. Hill, filed the complaint against the State Department of Education and the school. ## Why Gulf is the Gas for April

"APRIL SHOWERS bring May flowers." And warmer weather, too. That means a brand-new gasoline is shipped to Gulf stations—a gas especially made for April driving. For unless gasoline is changed to meet Spring's higher temperatures it can't give the highest mileage. Get That Good Gulf—it's "Kept in Step with the Calendar" so that all of it goes to work, none of it goes to waste.

Those people who have been saving up their money for a rainy day have surely had plenty of chances to turn loose a few dollars the past month.

Mar—If you try to kiss me, I shall scream!
Joe—Not with all these people about, surely.
Mar—Let's find a quieter spot, then.

As soon as there isn't any more complaint that it is too cold there is pretty sure to be a good deal of griping about the hot weather.

The Scotch patient was fumbling in his pocket.
Dentist—You don't need to pay in advance.
Scotchman—I'm not going to. I'm only counting my money before you give me the gas.

Using cheap or inferior goods to save money is just like stopping a clock to save time.

Preacher—I touched them rather deeply this morning, don't you think?
Deacon—I don't know. I haven't heard what the collection was.

Spring!!!
Listen! Listen! Listen! Can't you hear the call?
Hear! The Spring a-calling through the tree tops tall.
Through the open window comes the breath of Spring;
Breezes seem to whisper come! leave everything!
Come where flowers are blooming, where the violets peep;
Watch all things awaken from the Winter's sleep.
Leave behind all worry, leave the world of strife,
Feel your blood a-tinging with the joy of life.

Graduate—Professor, I have made some money and I want to do something for my old college. I don't remember what studies I excelled in.
Professor—In my classes you slept most of the time.
Graduate—Fine! I'll endow a dormitory.

The fact that man is made of dust is no reason why other men should plaster him with mud.

Relief Client—I don't suppose you don't know of nobody who don't want to hire nobody to do nothing, don't you?
Man—Yes, I don't.

In moonshine districts where the whiskey looks like water and is drunk like water, strange ideas prevail as to what intoxication really is. In a village one Sunday afternoon a man lay in the broiling sun in the middle of the road with an empty bottle by his side.

Sheriff—He's drunk; lock him up.
Interested Woman (interposing hastily)—No, he ain't drunk. I just seen his fingers move.

After you've lost money there's nothing so irritating as to hear of somebody who's made a lot.

Elmer—What are you so sad about, honey-bunch?
Honey-Bunch—Oh, darling, I was just thinking this will be our last evening together until tomorrow night.

Some men can't keep their hair and others can't keep their money.

Pretty Cashier—I need a rest. I'm not looking my best.
Manager—Nonsense.
Pretty Cashier—It isn't nonsense; the men are beginning to count their change.

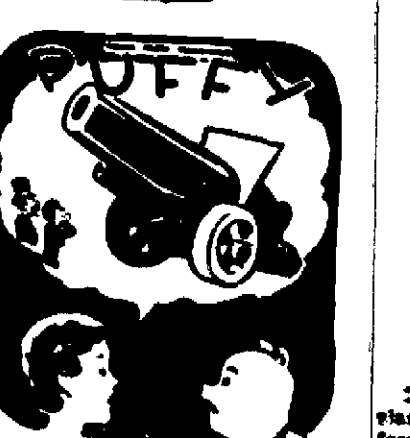

Doctor—H'm! Severe headaches, bilious attacks, pains in the neck, h'm! What is your age, madam?
Patient (coolly) Twenty-four, doctor.

Doctor—H'm! Loss of memory, too.

A man must be unusually big from the chin up, to stand up gracefully under too much praise or an over-dose of prosperity.

APRIL SHOWERS AHEAD

"The Uncertain Glory of an April Day"
With characteristic Scotch acumen, Charles Macintosh invented, more than a century ago, a rainproof fabric. It is to him that we owe our present ability to fool April showers. The word "mackintosh," a generic term applied to coats made specifically for rainwear, is a tribute to this ingenious Caledonian. Fickle April weather calls for a Boy Scout-like preparedness. Even the most promising day may require, at any moment, that you have suitable protection against an unheralded shower. The Londoner, long inured to this sort of thing, goes in for mackintoshes in a big way. No respectable Englishman ventures forth without his umbrella. Rubbers, however, are our own idea, and a pretty good one, at that. The much-rained-on gentleman above wears an oyster white rainproofed fabric coat, in a broad sweeping, double-breasted model. Raglan shoulder construction is an inherent characteristic in raincoats, giving a roof-like effect to this most exposed surface.

1. Hats bear the brunt of all weather conditions. The derby is a hardy hat, little affected by rain. Snapbrims are the most practical of soft felts. This one is worn undented, in a smart fashion.

2. The raglan shoulder, by front, slash pocket raincoat is a perennial favorite among the many styles of mackintoshes that come and go.

Garden Project for Needy Again Approved

Last summer a garden project of the ERB resulted in over 400 gardens, being planted by families on the city's relief rolls. ## "A Night in the Studio" Cast Held Rehearsal In Auditorium Here

The cast of "A Night in the Studio," the show to be presented in the Municipal Auditorium, Thursday evening at 8:15, through the courtesy of the Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel, for the Red Cross flood relief fund, rehearsed in the big hall last night to accustom themselves to the spacious place and its amplifying system.

Director Richard Obenaus of the minstrel part of the program, Helen Mann, general chairman of the show and Samuel J. Ribner, announcer for the "amateur radio broadcast" in the olio, or second part worked in collaboration with Dave Freer, technician at the Auditorium so that the performers and the variations in their voices are particularly understood.

Last night's rehearsal lasted until a late hour, because of the stress laid on the importance of having everyone heard, and the last time over the program, the singers and comedians were as audible in the back of the big hall as in the front. Engineer Freer found a new way to arrange the microphone, meaning that the performers will be as audible in the rear of the spacious hall as up in the front.

The show was improved upon, also, new humor being injected here and there, assuring all who attend of an evening's enjoyment. Those who saw the presentation at Temple Emanuel Hall last week said it was the best amateur production they had ever witnessed, meaning that the patrons Thursday will be in for a real treat.

For Red Cross Relief

The real reason for asking attendance at the show is a most worthy one, to help the Red Cross raise the extra 50 per cent asked by the national office of the organization at Washington to relieve flood sufferers.

Mayor Conrad J. Heiselein, and other prominent Kingstonians, have endorsed the show as a dramatic success and as an enterprise that deserves the patronage of every Kingstonian. The price of admission is nominal, within the reach of every pocketbook and all are strongly urged to attend the show. Those with generous hearts and feeling for the Red Cross in its benevolent endeavors, but who have to think of their own family budgets, will find the show a good way toward contributing toward the cause.

These eight professional and business men, prominent in the affairs of the city, do exceptionally well as ballarinas, as coached by Miss Ruth Selig. Those taking part are Dr. Harold Mandell, Dr. S. T. Levitas, Jess Schlesinger, Arthur B. Ewig, Nat Gross, Al Ronder, Ben Sherman and Albert Katz. They wear real ballarina costumes made by Coll Gross, wardrobe expert.

Other acts in the olio are done by Julius Ewig who sings "Dinner for One Please, James," Ruth Selig, "After Dark," Harry Miller, "Just It," Coll Silverman, "Indian Love Call," Jessie Wolfenstein, "Sweet Mystery of Life," Helen Mann, "Let Yourself Go," Regina Kaplan does a musical novelty, Phil Stiel imitates a soprano, Dick Obenaus a lot of other things, Harry Thorn, goes through the same routine he did in his professional stage productions, Marty Levey and Eva Schlesinger do a comedy skit and Sam Ribner announces the show with the aid of his stooge, Elmer.

Another cause for divorce. A mayor's wife in a Tennessee city tells the court his job has become an "obsession." A lot of mayors are like that.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must get at the cause—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle on the action yet give effective relief. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by clearing the bowels.

Judge in Stretz Case Reserves Decision to Dismiss Indictment

New York, April 1 (AP)—Judge Cornelius F. Collins reserved decision today on a defense motion to dismiss the first degree murder indictment against Vera Stretz, confessed slayer of her lover, Fritz Gebhardt.

Samuel S. Leibowitz, defense attorney, asked the dismissal on the ground the state had not proved premeditation and deliberation. If the motion should be granted, the jury would decide whether to convict the 32-year-old secretary of second degree murder of manslaughter, or to acquit her.

"Her story as to finding the weapon and cartridge in the room must be taken into consideration," said Judge Collins during arguments by Leibowitz and Miles O'Brien, assistant district attorney.

After completion of testimony and arguments on the motion, Judge Collins adjourned court until tomorrow morning, when he will announce his decision.

Denies Intent to Kill.
Dr. Gebhardt was shot during an early morning struggle in his East river apartment, she contended.

"When you pointed the pistol at Dr. Gebhardt, did you at any time intend to kill him?" asked defense Attorney Samuel Leibowitz.

"No," replied Miss Stretz quietly. Leibowitz, in brief rebuttal examination, asked the defendant about her questioning by Detective John Kaiser after the shooting last November 12.

"Did you say previously he jumped up and went around the room swearing?" he asked.

"Yes," Judge Cornelius Collins interposed: "Didn't you say previously that you were too stunned to remember what happened?"

"I object to the court's question and move for a mistrial," shouted Leibowitz.

"Motion denied." Leibowitz then moved to dismiss the case on separate motions encompassing first and second degree murder and manslaughter.

"I will listen to arguments," said Judge Collins, "only on the sufficiency of premeditation and deliberation."

He denied all motions except one phrased to dismiss the first degree murder indictment.

Engineer Refutes Point.
A ballistics engineer, called in rebuttal by the state, contradicted testimony of Vera Stretz today that she had purchased in 1931 the cartridges with which she killed her lover, Dr. Fritz Gebhardt.

Merton A. Robinson of New Haven, Conn., employed by an arms company, was asked to examine the box of cartridges found in Gebhardt's bureau after he was shot.

"Are you able to tell when the cartridges were manufactured by the serial numbers?" inquired Miles O'Brien, assistant district attorney.

"October 5, 1933," replied Robinson. He was dismissed.

Miss Stretz, who late yesterday completed three days on the witness stand, had testified she had purchased a revolver and cartridges in 1931 after a burglar scare. She gave them to Gebhardt last summer, she said, then seized the revolver and shot him when he tried to attack her last November 12.

The 32-year-old blonde secretary, charged with first degree murder, wore a ribbed black coat over the flowered silk dress in which she has been attired throughout the trial.

Kaiser on Stand.
Detective John B. Kaiser, in charge of the investigation, followed Robinson to the stand.

Judge Cornelius F. Collins and Samuel Leibowitz, Miss Stretz's counsel, engaged in a long colloquy over whether the attorney had charged Kaiser with changing his testimony in open court.

"Did you appear before the county grand jury?" asked O'Brien.

"I did," Miss Stretz testified both on direct and cross-examination on Monday and Tuesday that Gebhardt had "attempted" to assault her.

Then this question put to her by O'Brien: "But were you?"

"I don't know," she replied.

Hardy Confirmed As U. S. Attorney

Washington, April 1 (AP)—The Senate today confirmed Lamar Hardy as United States attorney for the Southern District of New York.

Action came after Hardy's qualifications had been attacked in a two-day debate by Senators Norris (R-Neb.) and LaFollette (Frog-Wis.) because of his previous connection with the defunct State Title and Mortgage Company of New York.

Senators Wagner (D-N.Y.) and Copeland (D-N.Y.) directed Hardy's defense. The vote was 66 to 3.

LaFollette said in a speech today Hardy was a director of the State Title and Mortgage Company of New York at a time when the firm was advertising its securities as safe investments while its guaranty fund was "impaired."

TELLS OF HAUPTMANN'S BREAKDOWN

Col. Mark O. Kimberling, warden of the state prison at Trenton, is shown telling reporters how Bruno Hauptmann broke down and wept as the hour of his execution neared. Hauptmann still asserted his innocence, he said. (Associated Press Photo.)

PWA Expert Urged Hoffman to Probe Origin of the Board

Washington, April 1 (AP)—Arch W. Loney, PWA materials expert, said today he had urged Governor Harold G. Hoffman, of New Jersey, to investigate the origin of the board from which part of the Lindbergh kidnapping ladder reportedly was made.

Loney said a carpenter named Boyer had told him that a 20-foot board was bought from the National Lumber Company—the Bronx firm which had sold lumber to Bruno Richard Hauptmann—a week after Hauptmann's arrest.

"It looks like somebody bought the board and put it in Hauptmann's home," Loney, who last week, accompanied the governor on an inspection trip, told newsmen.

Loney said Hoffman telephoned here about 4:30 yesterday afternoon to ask if he had any additional suggestions beyond his previous report.

"I told the governor," Loney said, "he ought to investigate whether a 20-foot board, 1 by 6 inches, was bought from the National Lumber Company. He said he could."

The state had contended that the famous "rail 16" of the kidnapping ladder was made from a section of a board in Hauptmann's attic. Loney said the section of the ladder is 6 feet 6 inches, and the remaining part of the board is now 13 feet.

He added that he became interested in the origin of the board because, from the construction of the attic he had not expected to find one. On one side, he said, there are 13 tongue and groove boards.

Further, Loney said, the tongue and groove portion would have been damaged had it actually been ripped out of the attic flooring as contended by the state.

Loney said Attorney General David W. Lientz of New Jersey, who prosecuted Hauptmann, had "threatened to embarrass me" during the visit to Hauptmann's home by disclosing details of the failure of a lumber company in which Loney had been interested.

"I told him to crack down," Loney said.

Loney added that if Hoffman "urged" him, he would renew his investigation of the case. He already had been authorized by Secretary Lick, his superior, to take whatever "unofficial action" he desired.

No Record of Purchase.
New York, April 1 (AP)—The manager of the National Mill Work Lumber Corporation said today it had no record of the purchase of a 20-foot board a week after the arrest of Bruno Hauptmann.

The manager, Arthur Hirsch, said it would be a physical impossibility to check such a purchase in the records.

Mrs. Hauptmann Sees 'Means of Saving Him,' Jubilant at Delay

Trenton, N. J., April 1 (AP)—"I think this will be the means of saving him," said Mrs. Anna Hauptmann today of the delay in execution which snatched her husband from death last night.

Instead of wearing the mourning veil she had bought, Bruno Richard Hauptmann's wife—jubilant, her hopes soaring again—laid out her gayly checked spring suit for another visit to his death cell.

Her joy in Hauptmann's new lease on life was the greater for receiving "loving messages" from him, relayed by the Rev. D. G. Werner, who was praying with Bruno in his cell when news came of the delay.

What happened at the hotel room where Anna received the news was as dramatic as the cell scene when Bruno heard it while praying.

Mrs. Hauptmann was transformed from a despairing woman, on the verge of collapse and under a physician's care to a picture of animation.

She chatted happily in German with Mr. Werner, Bronx pastor, who came to her room from the prison. She told C. Lloyd Fisher, Hauptmann's attorney:

"Tonight I shall be able to sleep." Mrs. Hauptmann, who had been near the telephone all day, "waiting for something to turn up," received the news by phone from Fisher.

Her hopes had nearly ebbed. She had sent to the prison "what she thought might be her last message to her husband: 'I love you and I will always remember you.' She was behind locked doors in her hotel room, with a physician, Dr. William S. Collier, in attendance.

Miss Miller Improved.
New York, April 1 (AP)—Marilyn Miller, stage star, ill in Doctors' Hospital, today was "slightly improved," according to her physician, Dr. W. Laurence Whittemore.

Mother Overjoyed At Execution Stay

Kament, Germany, April 1 (AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's aged mother greeted today news of the last-minute postponement of his execution with a happy exclamation. "Thank heaven, the miracle has happened, this means new hope."

Friends had taken the 78-year-old Frau Pauline Hauptmann to their home last night to console her during the hours when her son was to die in the electric chair at Trenton, N. J., for the slaying of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby.

All her previous references to "terror and uncertainty" were forgotten, however, as she learned that the electrocution was postponed for "at least 48 hours."

With a happy smile, she welcomed this new uncertainty, as long as it meant hope for her son.

"It is the first good news I have had for ever so long," she said, her face, tired and lined from a night of exhaustion, freshening with joy and excitement.

"I had given up all hope for some time, and found myself mumbling prayers when the clock interrupted my sigh," she said. "I heard it strike every hour from three in the morning."

(The electrocution had been set for 2 a. m., today German time.) "My innermost feelings made me quiet suddenly," she said, "as if I heard it strike every hour from three in the morning."

Seems as if the ingenuity used up in creating freak styles in women's hats might solve all our other economic problems.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York, April 1 (AP)—Strength reentered the stock market today, with numerous issues stepping up fractions to 3 or more points.

Although trading was not especially lively, it was a little faster than that of the preceding session, and there was a rather large assortment of new 5-year highs in evidence. Motors, steels, rails, oils and industrial specialties were in the forefront of the advance.

Among the outstanding gainers were General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Midland Steel Products, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, N. Y. Central, Seaboard Oil, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Keenecott, American Smelting, Macy, John-Manville, Eastman Kodak, Douglas Aircraft, Distillers Corp., U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Case and International Harvester.

Grains were still hesitant on improved crop weather advice and cotton was under moderate selling pressure most of the day. Bonds were steady. Rallying tendencies of leading foreign currencies helped sentiment.

Hauptmann Clings To Life, Wendel Is Probed

announced today that Wendel had asked the grand jury for permission to appear before it today, and that he believed he could show the alleged "confessions" were untrue, and that there had been "a conspiracy to obstruct justice."

Kafes said Wendel was ready to waive immunity.

Col. Mark O. Kimberling, prison warden, cancelled the Bronx carpenter's execution, which was set for 8 o'clock last night, "for at least 48 hours" so that the grand jury might look into "interesting new angles of the case."

No Wendel Indictment

The grand jury, after a session that began yesterday afternoon and did not end until 1 o'clock this morning, recessed without returning an indictment against Wendel. It deferred further consideration of the case until tomorrow morning when Prosecutor Marshall, who participated at least slightly in yesterday's session, decided that he wanted to know more about the circumstances connected with Wendel's arrest and the manner in which the "confessions" were obtained.

Wendel, 49-year-old former lawyer and druggist and who now lists his business as "salesman," was at the New Babylon State Colony for a time, and was turned over to Mercer County authorities and charged with the Lindbergh murder.

Voluntary Paper

The head of the State Colony said Wendel came to the hospital with Parker, and signed a paper stating that he was entering "voluntarily," and that he was "treated as a guest."

Attorney-General David T. Wilentz, prosecutor of Hauptmann and unwavering nemesis of the condemned man, told Justice Thomas W. Trenchard late yesterday in unsuccessful proceedings designed to stay Hauptmann's execution, that Detective Parker had "gone beyond the bounds of laws and decency" in having Wendel committed to the state hospital, and added:

"Can there be any conclusion but that he (Parker) participated with others in a scheme to thwart the orderly processes of law?"

This attitude of the attorney-general was believed to be one of the pegs on which today's sensation might hang.

Trenchard's Reaction

Justice Trenchard, who presided at Hauptmann's trial and who sketched the death warrant under which he was to have been executed last night, said that the Wendel "confessions" were "incredible, and out of harmony with the known facts in the case."

Parker, 65 years old, and best known for his long work on the famous Hall-Mills murder case, has a record of having solved 250 cases and having sent 121 murderers to death by electrocution or hanging. He explains his detective methods by saying that he "just figured 'em out."

Attorney General Wilentz, asked today if the postponement of Hauptmann's execution surprised him, echoed general sentiment about the state house when he replied:

"Nothing is surprising any more." Wilentz said he might have a statement to make on the Wendel case later in the day.

There was a report, lacking confirmation, that the grand jury was lacking four votes necessary to return an indictment in the Wendel case.

The unprecedented action of the prison warden and the grand jury ripped the case from the wide open to new possibilities. Legal authorities frankly were in a quandary today as to what might happen next.

No Precedent for Act.

C. Lloyd Fisher, chief defence counsel, said he had no idea what avenues were opened by the delay in the execution. So far as he knew there was no precedent.

In the case of an indictment being returned against Wendel, Fisher felt that a way would be found to extend the stay of Hauptmann's execution, but whether such a way would be through a court of law, the office of the governor or the court of pardons, Fisher did not know.

The Mercer county grand jury were in session from early afternoon yesterday until 1 o'clock this morning, finally recessing until 1:30 p. m. today for further investigation without any indictment being handed up. There was no indication as to how the jurors stood on the question when the recess was taken.

Several witnesses were questioned. Among them were Wendel's son and daughter. The latter, Mrs. Dorothy Wendel Phillips, faintly after testimony.

Ellis Parker, the 65-year-old Burlington county detective, who has worked independently for more than a year in an effort to solve the Lindbergh case and to prove his contention that Hauptmann is not guilty of the crime, was closeted with the jury some time.

Close Associate

Parker is a close associate of Governor Harold G. Hoffman, who has a strong fight in recent months to save Hauptmann from the electric chair, at least until a further investigation could be made of the Lindbergh kidnapping.

So swiftly moved the events of the execution day that the issuance by Governor Hoffman of a 30-day reprieve for Charles Zied, the man who was to have killed the "last mile" with Hauptmann, was almost buried under the avalanche of developments in the case of Hauptmann.

Zied, a Philadelphia gangster who killed a Camden policeman, had given up all hope and was resigned to death in the chair—a sharp contrast to Hauptmann who almost to the last breath expressed a belief that "some thing" would happen to save him.

But even Hauptmann, who has been the subject of "man of glass"

Sunken Barges Prove Navigation Menace

Sunken barges at the mouth of the Rondout creek are proving a menace to navigation. The sunken boats are thought to be derelict barges that were washed from the creek flats to the mouth of the Rondout creek during the flood. The government has placed markers on two of the barges, and it is thought that there are several more that have sunk in the immediate vicinity of those that have been located.

These sunken barges are proving a menace to boats entering or leaving the Rondout creek, and it is expected that the government will take immediate steps to have them removed.

The steamer Odell of the Hudson River Navigation Company was expected to arrive here late today, but whether she will attempt to enter the Rondout creek is not known at this time. This is the first trip up the river of the Odell since navigation closed here late in December.

Ben Fein Leases Store To New Firm

Ben Fein, manager of the New York Sample Shop, has leased the store in the Clermont building at 297 Wall street to Denison's Store, Inc. for a term of years.

Denison's Stores, Inc., are now operated in Newburgh where Mr. Denison has been engaged in business for the past five years and in Middletown eight years where the firm operates an entire building consisting of three floors and basement. The Kingston store will be opened for business within the next couple of weeks.

Denison's Stores, Inc., specialize in curtains and draperies and also carry a line of pillow-cases, sheets, towels, hosiery, underwear and cotton house dresses. The location of the store is next the New York Sample Shop where a cosmetic and cut-rate store recently moved out.

New Laws of Interest To Trout Fishermen

The trout fishing season in New York state opens on Saturday, April 4.

Attention of fishermen is called to two bills which recently became laws. One of them governs the size of catch that may be legally taken. Under the new law a person may take not to exceed ten pounds of trout in one day, provided that the number thereof taken shall not exceed twenty trout.

The other law relates to the open season and legal length of fish. It provides that "Trout not less than six inches in length may be taken and possessed from the first Saturday of April to August 31, both inclusive, except in the counties of Chenango, Columbia, Greene, Lewis, Sullivan and Tioga where trout not less than seven inches in length may be taken and possessed."

In Essex county the open season is from May 1 to the first Monday of September and trout must be at least seven inches in length.

Commissioner Osborn said today that "generally speaking, things look good." He suggested that anglers who are real sportsmen keep only the speckled beauties that are seven to eight inches or longer, "imposing on themselves a self-denying ordinance."

Lowell Club

On Tuesday the Lowell Club met with Mrs. Edwards at her home on Albany avenue. The afternoon's program opened with a most interesting and very valuable book review of "The House of Exile" by Nora Waln, given by Mrs. Witter. This was followed by another admirable and entertaining paper on "Chinese Village Life," given by Mrs. Howe. Tuesday, April 7, the last meeting, which will be the annual meeting, will be held at the home of Mrs. Virgil Van Wageningen.

Two large cakes were made for the occasion.

Meeting of Central Business Association

A large turn-out is looked for at the meeting of the Central Business Association, to be held at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday night. The meeting is called for 8 o'clock.

This will be the meeting for election of officers of the association, but in addition to that there is much other important business to be brought before the meeting. Probably the subject of greatest interest will be the question of the Broadway crossing elimination, which will undoubtedly come up for discussion.

President William O'Reilly is very anxious that there be as large a possible attendance of members at this meeting.

3 INDICTMENTS AGAINST TOWNSEND ORGANIZER

Washington, April 1 (AP)—Three indictments returned against Edward J. Margett, San Francisco area manager of the Townsend old age pension organization, were submitted to the House investigating committee today by James R. Sullivan, its counsel.

Sullivan said two indictments charged grand larceny and the other, in Kings county, Washington, charged him with "accepting the earnings of a common prostitute."

Robert S. Clements, resigned national secretary, said he had no knowledge of the nature of the indictments, but conceded, under questioning, they probably were the basis of complaints he had received about Margett.

Before permitting presentation of the indictments as evidence the committee went into secret session to discuss their admissibility. Representative Tolson (D-Calif.), a Townsendite, had objected to accepting the indictment and Representative Gavanagh (D-N. Y.) insisted the committee be polled.

To Campaign In New Jersey

Washington, April 1 (AP)—Senator Borah decided today to extend his primary campaign for the Republican presidential nomination to New Jersey. Whether supporters of Governor Landau of Kansas would enter his name there was asked immediately at the Capitol, in view of indications that such would be the case if Borah went in. If this happens, the New Jersey contest will be the first and possibly the only one in the primaries between the two.

Farm boys and girls in Broome county will lead the state in number of trees planted this spring, but Oneida county tops them all for the 10-year period ending in 1935.

Lotteries Attorney Attacks Phraseology

Washington, April 1 (AP)—Horace J. Donnelly, attorney for Mrs. Oliver Harriman's National Conference on Legalizing Lotteries, Inc., said today he "proposed to move to have stricken" from a postoffice fraud citation concerning that organization a statement that "it does not now have, and did not have at the time of the inauguration of the aforesaid scheme, sufficient funds out of which to pay the promised $50,000 in cash prizes."

Donnelly, a former Postoffice Department solicitor, said:

"This statement is immaterial to the charge. The people backing this plan have thousands of dollars available."

"It's just a matter of whether you have money in one hand or another. It's a bookkeeping proposition."

"As a legal proposition I have no doubt in the world that the 'Selection Sweepstakes' is a wholly legal plan, consistent with all the rulings of the courts."

"It's not a money-making proposition, but simply a move to familiarize people with what is going on in the world of lotteries."

Government lawyers explained the "show cause" citation did not mean a charge that the conference's content plan was fraudulent, but that such orders were issued against alleged "lotteries" as well.

If an order is issued, after a hearing set now for Friday morning, mail to the conference and to Mrs. Harriman would be returned to the sender marked "fraudulent" under the lottery laws.

Seaman's Awarded Verdict of $400

Walter R. Seaman and wife were awarded a verdict of $400 in supreme court Tuesday against the Leon Neon Service Corporation of Newburgh for alleged damage to the Highland Theatre building which it was alleged was caused by the erection of a canopy sign over the theatre. Plaintiffs, owners of the building, alleged the sign was negligently erected and was too heavy for the building causing the walls to bulge and crack. The action was brought against the sign company and also against the Horowitz boys and Jess Alexander lessees of the building but the jury returned a verdict against the sign company and no cause of action against the operators of the theatre.

Testimony was given showing that when the sign was erected the wall bulged and had to be pulled back in place and the sign later attached by another method. George Rusk of Rusk & Rusk appeared for Plaintiffs and Hyman Knopf of Newburgh appeared for the sign company and Mr. Gasoli for the theatre operators.

Court recessed until Thursday at 11 o'clock to receive the grand jury report.

Designed for Its Locale

A New England house of local stone is shown today. The words of the designing architects may best describe it: "It sold long before it was finished. . . it is being copied. . . it is all meat and no bone. . . it is built of local stone, all too little used in small New England houses." The house contains, in a compact form, many accommodations. The plan is a variation of the central-hall type, but departs rather radically from it in the use of half of the first floor for bedroom space and in the extension of the living quarters around a fenced-in garden. Living room, dining room and terrace combine to form unusually comfortable living quarters! Kilham, Hopkins & Greeley are the architects, and the house is one of a series of distinguished small homes appearing in "Architecture."

Bonus Payments Satisfy Universal Desire For Home

In the heart of every man there exists an eager desire to possess a home in which to shelter and make comfortable his wife and children and where he can find peace and contentment among his loved ones after the toil and disappointments of the long day are over. There is also the deep seated desire to improve the home. Bonus bonds will make this possible for many men.

In the heart of every woman the desire for a home of her own is of even more impelling force than that which sits in the breast of the man, for besides being the shelter of her husband and little ones, the home also is the woman's acknowledged domain, her little kingdom where she reigns supreme, the scene of her daily life and tasks, the abiding place of her affections.

These sentiments and yearnings for a home and to improve it are as old as the age of man and since the beginning of the world have been as constant and universal as the steady flow and ebb of the tide of life and death.

The home enshrines the love and happiness of the family; it is the center of the family life, the tie that binds father and mother, brother and sister in a chain of family affection, loyalty and tender consideration that endures to the end. How vital then, and desirable it is that each family should own the home that shelters it, that is the altar of domestic happiness? How vital also that this home serve its family as well as possible through constant modernization.

Down in his heart every man, or head of a family, has a desire to be independent, for independence is the measure of one's standing in his community. Among the first and most essential steps along the road to independence is to own one's home.

The tenant who joins the ranks of the home-owners enhances the value of his citizenship; he naturally takes greater interest in public affairs and in all projects for the progress and development of his community for the property owner has more at stake than the tenant.

When a man becomes a taxpayer he wants to know how the taxes he pays are expended and he almost invariably makes it part of his duty to ascertain whether the administration of public affairs is wise or extravagant. And he acts upon that knowledge to the advantage of the entire community.

Communities of home-owners are happier and more prosperous than those in which there is a preponderance of rent-payers. The tenants' lot at best is not an enviable existence, there are so many inconveniences, annoyances and difficulties in trying to make a real "home" out of some landlord's "house." And besides we all know the truth of the assertion that money paid out for rent is gone forever.

Woody Arrested In Syracuse on Charge of Theft of Car Here

James Woody, 18, of 173 Wall street, was arrested in Syracuse yesterday on a warrant sworn out in Kingston charging the youth with the theft of the Chevrolet sedan owned by Frank Emerson of St. Pemy the night of February 29, from the parking grounds of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation. The stolen car was later found abandoned at Havana. This morning in police court Woody informed Judge Culliton that he desired to get in touch with his mother before he entered a plea, and the hearing was adjourned to Friday morning and bail fixed at $250.

According to a sworn affidavit attached to the Woody information and made by Wilfred Morin of Albany avenue extension, Morin swore that he was with Woody at the time the car was stolen. Morin's affidavit states that Woody and he entered the parking ground and helped themselves to the Emerson car and that Woody drove it as far as Havana where they abandoned it and hitchhiked into Albany. From Albany they caught a ride into Syracuse on a freight. Later Morin returned to Kingston without Woody. Morin was recently held for grand jury action in connection with the theft of an automobile, owned by W. Kenneth Kukuk, the local undertaker, which was stolen from Tremper avenue. The car was recovered in Saugerties and Morin held for the Kingston police by the Saugerties authorities.

As soon as the local police received word from Syracuse that Woody was being held, Officers Van Buren and Klineh motorized to that city yesterday afternoon and returned with Woody this morning. They made the round trip in twelve hours.

Alfred Huddelson of Newburgh, arrested for speeding on East Chester street was fined $5 by Judge Culliton this morning.

Hearst is Called Sweatshop Publisher

Washington, April 1 (AP).—William Randolph Hearst's latest legal move to prevent the senate lobby committee from seizing or using his telegrams is before the district of Columbia supreme court today for consideration.

Counsel for the publisher asked the court late yesterday, not to dismiss an injunction suit before it, and bitterly denounced the committee as trying to "violate sacred provisions of the constitution."

Earlier in the day Hearst was denounced from the floor of the senate by Senator Schwellenbach (D-Wash.), a member of the committee. He accused the publisher of running his newspapers on a "sweatshop" basis.

The committee has urged dismissal of the suit on the ground the court has no jurisdiction over administrative acts of the senate.

Work Progressing on The Mt. Tremper and Other County Bridges

Work preparatory to salvaging the Mr. Tremper-Mt. Pleasant bridge which was damaged by flood waters is now going on. County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran has two power shovels now at work in the Esopus channel cutting through a new channel which will divert the water under the west span and away from the east pier which is damaged. When this work is completed it is expected that an inspection of the east pier and the piling there can be made and as soon as the extent of damage is known the work of rescuing the damaged steel span will be taken up.

In order to replace the damaged span which has dropped down considerably since the high water damage, it will be necessary to place additional supports under the east end of the bridge. Re-enforced concrete members will be installed and at present plans are being made to install a supporting member in the center of the bridge. The original truss bridge will thus be made into a temporary cantilever bridge. However no definite plans can be made as to repairs until the water has been diverted from the damaged pier and the true nature of the damage ascertained. It is known that this pier at the east end will have to have considerable work done on it before the bridge can be jacked up in place.

Application has been made by Mr. Loughran to the Federal Government for federal aid funds but whether this request will be acted upon favorably is not known.

Pending repairs vehicular traffic must use the back road to Phenicia. Pedestrians are using the bridge, however, although in order to protect the county from any damage action the bridge has been officially closed.

Bushnellville road has been officially closed to traffic over four tons in weight. This was done by Mr. Loughran in order to protect the temporary structures which have been placed along the route which was very badly damaged by the flood. A temporary bridge has been installed at the lower end of the valley where damage was done and the roadway has been filled in and cribbing placed. A second bridge up the valley has been replaced by a temporary structure and a new roadway has been placed over a new alignment. This alignment is the same as has been surveyed by the state in anticipation of taking over the route and the construction of the state highway. In laying out the temporary road Mr. Loughran secured consents from the property owners and laid out his road over the same alignment which the state would use, thus eliminating the necessity of running two lines.

A temporary bridge up the valley has been placed and cribbing is being installed where slides took place on up the valley to the county line. Following the flood the people of the valley were cut off from the outside and it was necessary to reopen the route as quickly as possible. Reconstruction of a culvert on the Port Ewen-New Salem road is also going on. An old stone culvert which was damaged and the roadway half washed out near the former May Park school house, is being replaced by a corrugated iron tube five feet in size.

In other sections of the county practically normal conditions have been restored.

TIRE ADVERTISEMENT IN FREEMAN BROUGHT RESULTS

Response to an advertisement published last week in The Freeman was so generous that Brown's Service, Inc., on central Broadway has received another shipment of Crown tires and will continue the "two for one" tire sale for three more days. The sale will be continued for the remainder of the week with two tires being sold for the price of one. Harris Brown states that in the rubber trade an advance is being anticipated in the price of tires due to an increased cost of crude rubber. Recent published statements anticipate a 5 per cent increase in tire prices. An advertisement quoting prices for the "two for one" sale will be found in this edition.

Temporary Relief Measure Extended

Albany, April 1 (Special).—A bill by Assemblyman J. Edward Conway, of Kingston, requiring that in order to be licensed to practice medicine doctors must first be citizens of the state, has been put over until April 20.

This ostensibly means that the measure will not pass this year as it is now anticipated that the session will have ended before that date. Should the session still be in progress, however, it may again be postponed for consideration by the house until it eventually will die of its own accord.

Wicks Bill Extended.

The Temporary Emergency Relief Administration, of which Althair H. Wicks is the author, has been extended for another 15 months. It was to have expired last night, but the late session of the senate concurred in the Wadsworth amendment passed earlier in the day. Governor Herbert H. Lehman signed the measure a few hours before midnight.

In permitting this relief agency to operate until July, 1937, the state will have a means of continuing to cope with the emergency situation regarding labor and unemployment since the depression and during the coming months the legislative committees may draft plans for placing the functions of the TERA with the Department of Social Welfare to follow out the long-range policy advocated by both Democrats and Republicans.
